Residents can learn to save money by saving water

Macomb County residents interested in learning to save money and help the environment through proper water conservation can attend a "Save Water, Save Money" seminar offered by Macomb County MSU Extension (MSUE).

Attendees will learn both indoor and outdoor conservation techniques to help them save money on water and energy bills and protect the environment.

The free program runs from 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 2, in the MSUE offices, 21885 Dunham Road (near entrance E) in Clinton Township.

For more information or to register for the program, call 586-469-6430.

Private presentations for community groups and organizations also are available.

Macomb MSU Extension offers 'Living with Less' program

Macomb County residents experiencing a sudden loss of income are encouraged to attend "Living with Less," a free program to help adjust to a new financial reality.

Participants will learn to recognize the grief of the loss, reassess how money will be used, and how to handle disagreements and conflicts when trying to adjust to financial changes.

The three-hour program will run from 1-4 p.m. Tuesday, June 2, at the Sacred Heart Education Building, 18430 Utica Rd., in Roseville.

Registration is required. For more information or to register, call 586-469-7614.

Program helps parents teach children about money

Interested in learning fun and interactive ways to teach your child about money? The Macomb County MSU Extension (MSUE) is offering a free, 'Money Smart from the Start' class to teach parents of 3-8 year-olds about the importance of money and saving.

Participants will learn about fun, interactive and age-appropriate games, books and activities to help children better understand the concepts of money, saving and spending.

The program runs from 6-8:30 p.m. Thursday, May 21, at the MSUE offices, 21885 Dunham Rd. (near entrance E), in Clinton Township.

Registration is required. For more information or to register, call 586-469-7614.

For more information on any of the Macomb MSU-E community programs including Children-Youth-Family, Agriculture and Natural Resources or Community and Economic Development, please call 586-469-5180, Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.
