Macomb County's award-winning programs lead Michigan for 26th year

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. – Macomb County proved again that inventive government programs and services lead to a high quantity of “Achievement Awards” from the National Association of Counties (NACo).

Macomb County earned 16 NACo awards in 2007 – best among Michigan’s 83 counties for the 26th consecutive year. Macomb tied for fourth nationally, behind only San Diego and Los Angeles counties in California, and Mecklenburg County (Charlotte), North Carolina. Miami Dade County, Florida, and Montgomery County, Maryland, earned the same number of awards as Macomb County.

Macomb County won 542 NACo awards over the 26 years it’s led the state.

“Our employees, department heads and elected officials deserve all the credit for identifying new ways to improve services and help people in need,” said William Crouchman, chair of the Macomb County Board of Commissioners. “It is a truly remarkable achievement for our government to perform at this level for so many years.”

The NACo awards are presented to county government programs that demonstrate exemplary management and innovative service delivery at maximum cost efficiency.
